Favorites

A variety of scoring methods including:

- Stableford Gross: Instead of counting total number of strokes for the round, you get points based on the number of strokes for each hole.
- Par 3 Score
- Par 4 Score
- Par 5 Score

7. The Off the Tee (Fairway) visualization:

- This visualization indicates 93% of tee off end up in center of the fairway and 7 % go to the right.
- For Average Score When Fairway Hit, if the number is negative, then your score tends to be lower by that amount. If it is a positive number, your score tends to increase by that amount. You would want this number to be zero or a negative number.
- For Average Score when Fairway Missed, if the number is negative, then your score tends to be lower by that amount even when you go off the fairway. If it is a positive number, your score tends to increase by that amount.

The Long Shots & Lay Ups visualizationThe Approach the Green visualization

8. The GIR Accuracy visualization:

The visualization indicates 39% (or 7 of 18) of fairway shots result in hitting the green.

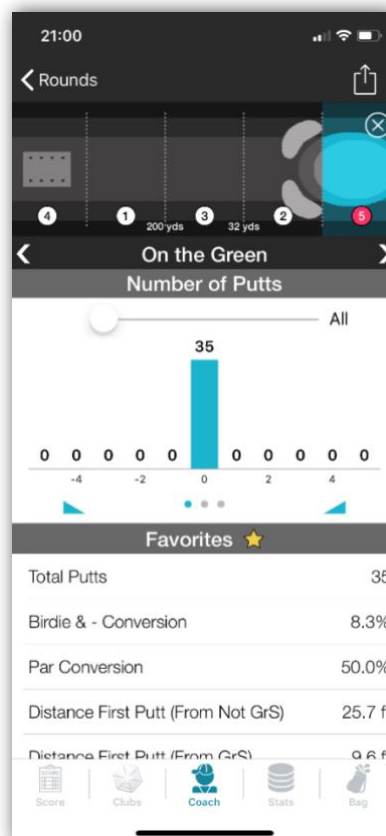

Par 3 GIR indicates that the player achieves the Green in Regulation statistic 50% of the time.

9. The On the Green visualization:

This indicates the number of times the player holed the ball from the green with one put, 2 put or 3+ putts.

Birdie or Better Conversion is the percentage of time a player successfully putts for a birdie or eagle. This stat is calculated by dividing the number of holes that scored less than par by the number of holes that made GIR.

Par Conversion is the percentage of putts made for par or birdie.
